

Sneaky Re-entry Programming Students Will Actually Attend

Sarah Robinson
Jennifer McConnell

Butler University

Introduction

- * Butler University
- * Center for Global Education
- * Internship and Career Services

Inspiration

- * Observations
 - * Reverse culture shock
 - * Students' descriptions of overseas experiences
 - * Low attendance at re-entry activities
- * What do students want?
 - * To tell their story
 - * Exciting food options not available on campus
 - * Individualized career guidance and preparation
 - * Employers they can talk to and learn from in a relaxed environment

Goals and Preparation

- * Big picture goal
 - * Help students process their overseas experiences and learn how to professionally articulate what they learned
- * Workshop preparation and logistics
 - * Advertising targeted to students that recently returned
 - * Pictures from students that RSVP
 - * Room arrangement that encourages discussion and interaction with panel
 - * International food from a local off campus restaurant

Workshop Success Story

- * Workshop Agenda

- * Introductions
- * Chalk talk activity
- * Dinner, conversation with fellow students, and networking with alumni and employer panelists
- * Career development and preparation focus
- * Panel discussion with alumni and employers
- * Q&A

Workshop Success Story

- * Effectiveness
 - * High attendance
 - * Positive feedback from students and employers
 - * Cross-campus collaboration

Reflection and Action

WHAT? What do students want for re-entry programming?	HOW? How can we provide it to them?	WHO? Who can we collaborate with?
Career prep, Contact with employers	Articulating Your Study Abroad Experience Workshop	Internship and Career Services, Alumni, Local Employers
Unique food	International Dinner Outing	Residence Life
Connections with fellow study abroad peers	Pizza and “Big Questions” Event	Center for Faith and Vocation

Key Takeaways

Q & A

Contact Information

- * Sarah Robinson, Study Abroad Advisor
 - * Center for Global Education
 - * smrobins@butler.edu

- * Jennifer McConnell, Career Advisor
 - * Internship and Career Services
 - * jmcconne@butler.edu