USCIS Form I-131 + Statement of Purpose + Supporting evidence (Cost: $360)
Discussing my work as an immigration attorney with other alumni, was told that there were DACA students at Pomona. Had been wanting to volunteer at the college, approached Dean Feldblum about working pro bono with DACA and undocumented students.

Speak individually and in groups to students regarding issues on their DACA and AP applications, discuss immigration history to determine possible problems.
Legal Issues to Consider

Advance Parole does not guarantee entry into the United States. Student must be “admissible.”

- Immigration History:
  - Does the student have a removal (deportation) order?
  - Any history, stops or detention by INS/ICE or CBP?
  - Were parents ever in removal (deportation) proceedings when student was a child?
  - Any misrepresentation or false claim of US Citizenship to government official?
  - Unlawful presence issues.

- Criminal history:
  - Does the student have a criminal history that could cause problems? Even cases that have been expunged or dismissed could cause problems.

- Elections:
  - DACA could be dismantled by a new president. Should not be stuck abroad if a new president has pledged to dismantle DACA.
Timing issues

- DACA must be current when student applies for AP to study abroad.
- Must have Advance Parole before student leaves US or will lose DACA status.
- DACA should not expire while student is abroad.
- Student must travel within the “issue date” and return date. (Some reports that USCIS has denied DACA renewals if student travel before “issue date.”)
- Plan ahead, applications with USCIS may take many months.

Advising - Additional Questions to Consider

- When does your DACA expire?
- Do you have a passport?
- When does your passport expire?
- What country is your passport from?
- Will you need a visa for destination?
- What does visa process include for that country?
- Can you apply for visa from U.S.?

Based on the answers, determine timeline and when is the best time to study abroad.
Tips and Lessons Learned

Begin process early. Ducks in a row: DACA, passport, SA application, Advance Parole, visa

Extra coaching may be needed

Travel:

- Check airlines for familiarity with Advance Parole prior to booking
- Minimize stops during travel and plan extra time for layovers
- Request extra time in AP application
- Advance visas
